

Welcome to the Asian Ecology Section (AES) of the Ecological Society of America (ESA)

(<https://www.esa.org/asian/>).

The AES was established in 1994 and our objectives are:

- To foster and facilitate communication and collaborations among ecologists who work with ecosystems on the Asian continent.
- To promote, advance, and coordinate ecological research and dissemination in Asia.
- To act as a liaison agency among researchers, societies, and other groups interested in all branches of ecology in Asia.

The Asian Ecology Section (AES) of the Ecological Society of America (ESA) "AES-ESA Talks"

What

Thermal optimality of ecosystem carbon fluxes

Who

Prof. Shuli Niu

When

8:30 PM, 02/07/2024, US Eastern Time

9:30 AM, 02/08/2024, Beijing Time

Where

Join from PC, Mac, Linux, iOS or Android: <https://auburn.zoom.us/j/85788389306>

Speaker's Biography

Professor Shuli Niu has been a distinguished member of the faculty at the Institute of Geographic Sciences and Natural Resources Research, Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS), since 2013. She earned her Ph.D. degree from the Institute of Botany, CAS, in 2004 and subsequently held the position of assistant professor there from 2005 to 2007. Following that, she pursued postdoctoral research at the Department of Microbiology and Plant Biology, University of Oklahoma, USA, from 2008 to 2012. Dr. Niu's research expertise spans a wide range of topics, with a primary focus on global environmental change and terrestrial ecosystem functions. Her contributions to the scientific community are impressive, boasting over 200 peer-reviewed publications in esteemed international journals, which have collectively received more than 16,000 citations. Her H-index stands at an impressive 69, as evidenced by her Google Scholar profile (<https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=f7PNK1QAAAAJ&hl=en>). In addition to her research accomplishments, Dr. Niu has actively served as an associate editor for prominent academic journals such as Ecology Letters, Functional Ecology, JGR-Biogeosciences, among others.